

It's Our Seder

(to the tune of Leonard Cohen's "Hallelujah")

Tonight, we'll eat unleavened bread.
Recalling how the Hebrews fled
When we were all set free by our Creator.
We'll run to open up the door,
Invite Elijah in once more
And hope Elijah joins us at our Seder.

(Chorus)

It's our Seder. It's our Seder.
It's our Seder. It's our Seder.

We'll wash our hands and bless the wine,
Eat bitter herbs while we recline.
The kids will find the Afikomen later.
We'll say some prayers and sing some tunes,
Eat matzah balls and macaroons,
And binge out on charoset at our Seder.

(Chorus)

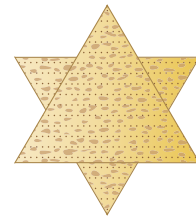

It's our Seder. It's our Seder.
It's our Seder. It's our Seder.

The Pharaoh made the Hebrews cry
Because he was a wicked guy.
More evil than Lex Luthor or Darth Vader.
But God set all our people
free,
Released us from our misery
And that is why we gather at our Seder.

(Chorus)

It's our Seder. It's our Seder.
It's our Seder. It's our Seder.

Some think that there's no God above
But they still come because they love
The matzah balls, the people, the tradition.
While others think it's God's decree
That we recall our slavery
To them, the Seder is a sacred mission.

(Chorus)

It's tradition and a mission.
It's tradition and a mission.

It's our Seder. It's our Seder.
It's our Seder. It's our Seder.
